The city schools reopened this morning with practically no loss in attendance. A number have signified their intention of entering at the beginning of the second semester which will be two weeks from today. The teachers are arranging to place them in their proper classes as they enter.

A number of the young people are planning to give a big New Year's dance this week, Thursday night, January 2 being selected instead of Wednesday night on account of the fact that many of the business men would be busy on the night of the first, closing up their books, etc. The list for the dance is now at Chapman's drug store and those who intend going are requested to go there and scratch the list.

Bill Sapp and other of the employees at the insane asylum have been at Nevada, Mo., for several days looking over the management of things there. They now have their duties here clearly in mind and start work within a few days.

J. C. Hogan and others were up from Pryor Saturday afternoon to identify some hides that were supposed to have been taken from stolen cattle near that city. The hides were identified and suspects were later arrested in Pryor as being the thieves. The cattle had been sold to the butcher at Pryor and he had shipped the hides to the house in this city.

For Advertising Purposes Only.

Recent advertisements of a South African oil company, prominently displayed in London and other papers throughout the British Islands, contain a flattering recommendation of the holdings of this company by an engineer, W. W. Van Nesa, who is stated to be "late of the United States Geological Survey." Mr. Van Nesa is unknown to the geologists of the United States Geological Survey and so far as can be determined from the records has never held any scientific or other appointment with that organization. The statement that he has been a member of this scientific bureau of the United States government is obviously intended to delude persons into purchasing stock on the strength of the recommendation conveyed by this connection, and without doubt it may have been successful in misleading some. Such a statement amounts to no more nor less than fraud, whether authorized by Mr. Van Nesa or not.

Another case that has just come to the attention of the Washington office of the Geological Survey is a statement regarding a mining man in one of the central states who is quoted as having been a field man of the survey and as having resigned his position to take leases on some of the mineral deposits discovered by him in the course of his work for the government. The facts are that he was employed by one of the survey geologists for 14 days as a guide and had no part in the examination of the mineral deposits mentioned other than to render assistance as one who was especially familiar with the localities that the geologist wished to visit.

Basketball Here Friday.

There will be a basketball game in the gymnasium of the high school next Friday evening between the local boys and a team from the Neosho high school. The Neosho team is a fast one and expect to even up for the glorious defeat handed them by our boys at football. A new balcony over the court has been built and a much larger number of people can be seated than at the former games. The coaches and team of the local school will work afternoons and evenings of the first part of this week and expect to make this game their first victory for the season and then work for the stronger teams of this state for the championship.

Gold Trodden Into Floor.

The wooden floor of a jewelry shop becomes valuable after a few years because of the gold dust that is trapped into the pores of the wood and into the cracks. A manufacturing jeweler who moved not long ago got permission from the landlord to tear up the old floor and replace it with a new one after he moved. The boards and dirt were burned to ashes and yielded a profit of $125 in gold after all expenses of the new floor and the smelting were paid.

The Remaining Good.

If you lose heart about your work, remember that none of it is lost, that the good of every good deed remains and breeds and works on forever, and that all that falls and is lost is the outside shell of the thing, which, perhaps, might have been better done; but better or worse has nothing to do with the real spiritual good which you have done to men's hearts.—C. Kingsley.

To Illustrate.

Examples as well as precept was furnished to the youthful autograph send who wrote to one of the world's richest men, asking for an "autograph sentiment" and inclosing a two-cent stamp for his reply. Over his opulence's signature came the prompt response—on a post card: "A penny saved is a penny earned."—Lippincott's.

Truth in Old Adage.

In children the training of the senses, so necessary, is for the most part unconscious and self-attained, as in games, yet the science of psychology has invented tests to aid such training of the senses. There seems to be a lot of truth in the old saying: "Do not believe all you see, nor half you hear."

Try This on Grease Spots.

For very bad grease spots on the front of a cotton dress sprinkle plentifully with finely prepared starch and cover it with brown paper. Iron it with a hot iron for a few minutes, then wash it in the usual way in warm soapuds; no trace of the grease remains.

Sisters in Triple Wedding.

A triple wedding ceremony took place recently in Restalrig Parish church, near Edinburgh, Scotland. The three brides were sisters, and they were all dressed alike in white silk crepon, with picture hats. They were given away by the father of one of the bridegrooms.

Such Are Great Men.

Great men are the fire-pillars in this great pilgrimage of mankind; they stand as heavenly signs, ever-living witnesses of what has been, prophetic tokens of what may still be, the revealed, embodied possibilities of human nature.—Thomas Carlyle.

Cure for Seasickness.

A passenger on a German steamer after trying various remedies for seasickness, at a pancake with (German) cranberries, and found himself promptly cured. All the steamerers of that line now have "Pfannkuchen mit Preiselbeeren" on their menu.

Deuteronomy.

Pastor—"Is it not a wonderful thought, my dear Mr. Jones, that even the hairs of your head are numbered?" Cynical Old Bachelor (with a rueful glance in the mirror)—"Oh, I don't know. I could count 'em myself."—Judge.

Prices in Seville.

Roses are 18 cents a dozen in mid-winter in Seville. The cost of theater tickets is not usually more than 42 cents. But railway travel for short distances costs nearly four cents a mile.

Their Endless Wrangle.

The Doctor—"Natural endowment goes a great way, I grant you, but it takes education to make a man of parts." The Professor—"Yes, but monkeying with a buzzsaw will do it quicker."

New York's Demand for Coal.

One year's supply of coal for New York city loaded into fifty-ton cars would make a train reaching from Salt Lake City to the Atlantic ocean, a distance of 2,452 miles.

Hope Yet.

"Everything goes against me," he declared sadly. "I've played the game out." "Tut, tut, old man!" replied his cheerful friend. "Brace up. Borrow some money and be somebody."

Daily Thought.

It has been well observed that advice is not hated because it is advice, but because so few people know how to give it.—Leigh Hunt.

Sources of Wealth in Arkansas. Arkansas produces coal, silver, galena, slate, oil stones and clay of every description.

And His Self-Respect. The man who marries for money sells his liberty.—Proverb.
